

Case Study: the Gyronix System™ is a Knock-Out with Attorneys-at-Law

The Gyronix System™ has dramatically improved efficiency and productivity for Attorney Chuck Rubin. Partner in a leading Florida law firm, he is uniquely qualified in tax, probate, trust and business.

Being a partner in a law firm with such an outstanding reputation for bringing together professional excellence and in-depth specialised knowledge to achieve outstanding results for every client is a major responsibility, requiring sophisticated practices and management systems. These systems have to not only provide the client with the best possible results, but also meet and comply with complex legal requirements.

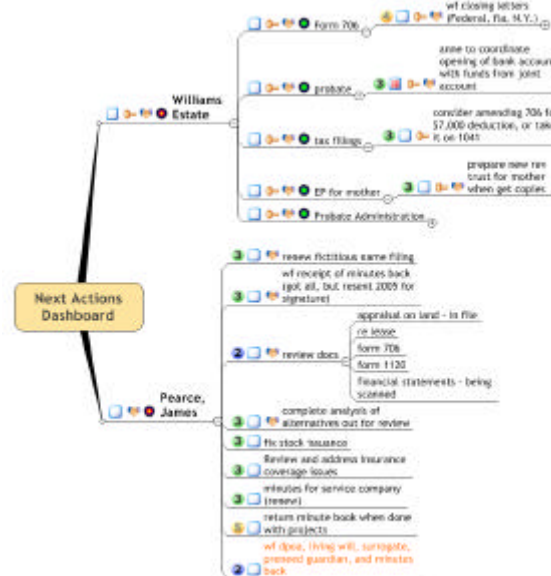

Three particular challenges face attorneys-at-law; firstly managing their own client cases; secondly managing staff; and thirdly managing personal and non-work related activities – to maintain balance and ensure deadlines across all three areas are met.

Rubin faces these challenges daily. At any time he successfully co-ordinates from 50 to 75 client projects, keeping track of tasks and deadlines – either set by the client or legal requirements.

Internally, he manages his own team as well as having joint-client work with the other 8 attorneys in the firm, and has many non-work-related commitments.

This concentrated and ever-changing results-driven workload requires a robust, fast, flexible and efficient management system, which not only alerts users to deadlines but also makes the implementation process more efficient. Rubin's has found the Gyronix System the ideal business solution for meeting these needs. The Gyronix System seamlessly integrates Mindjet MindManager® business mapping software with Gyronix ResultsManager™ software. This provides a powerful tool to capture actions and feedback. These actions are then turned into clear and focused individual and team task lists (dashboard maps), making implementation a smooth, manageable and controlled process.

"A major challenge facing attorneys is achieving deadlines and meeting legal compliance regulations. The Gyronix System enables me to very quickly input updates, be reminded in good time of all deadlines, and maintain full control of my daily workload, and hereby manage this critical challenge," commented Rubin.

"The system is so fast and efficient that I use it for taking notes, mapping out research, undertaking legal analysis and outlining memos and briefs. This saves an enormous amount of time as I can very quickly review notes before a briefing session, or write up a case much more efficiently by having a map of all the key points on a single page. I don't know of any other system which can do this so efficiently", continued Rubin.

In addition, Rubin finds the Gyronix System invaluable in client meetings and internal meetings, where time savings are also made. By running an action list dashboard on the specific client project, the attorney is instantly updated of all imminent actions as well as having an overview of the case history. This all adds to the reputation and professionalism the firm is renowned for.

"My business is based upon providing best practice and best quality client service and delivering it in a way that gets my clients the results they seek as well as complying with all Florida legal requirements. The Gyronix System helps me achieve this incredibly effectively and efficiently," concluded Rubin.
